No. 2 (96) February 1958

Front Cover: Building an interplanetary station. This is a still from “Road to the Stars”, a Soviet popular-science film. (See “From the Earth to the Moon” on pages 5 to 9.)

Back Cover: Dombeya in bloom. In the dead of winter, while blizzards raged outdoors, the pink buds of an exotic plant opened up in one of the greenhouses of Moscow University’s Botanical Gardens. A blossoming plant in winter is not a rarity of course, but this particular one was. This specimen of dombeya, a beautiful decorative plant which flowers every year in its habitat, blossomed recently for the first time in Moscow, though it was brought there more than forty years ago.
