

~~~~~
Amherst BioNews Monthly Newsletter - May 2019 edition

Greetings biology folk,
It's time for another edition of our monthly newsletter with all that's happening and exciting in Amherst College Biology!

• Hooray to all the Biology Honors Thesis students for submitting and presenting their terrific honors theses. Here's a picture from the dinner following the presentations:

• Congratulations to Profs Miller and Levin on their recent paper with Caitlyn Blank '14: Colonization, Baker's law, & the evolution of gynodioecy in Hawaii published in the *American Journal of Botany* May 2019 issue

• Congratulations to Eduardo Guadarrama '18, his research from a summer REU at Woods Hole was just published in PLOS ONE!

• Professor Poccia taught his official last class and we were able to celebrate the final few minutes with cheers and then captured a photo of him with the lucky students:

Best wishes for an excellent ending to the spring semester,
-the Biology Department

...have something Department-related to share in the next newsletter? Please email Joe Trapani