DESCRIPTION OF THE COLLECTION

Scope and Content Note

The Vadim Kreyd Papers reflect the life and professional career of Russian émigré poet and literary critic Vadim P. Krejdenkov. Vadim Krejdenkov was born in 1936 in a small Siberian town Nerchinsk, near Chita. After graduation from a local high school, he went to Leningrad and was accepted by the philological department of Leningrad State University. During his university years he befriended many well-known Russian intellectuals and dissidents, such as Rid Grachev, Vladimir Ufliand, Gleb Gorbovskii, Boris Ivanov, Oleg Tselkov.

He lived in Leningrad for more than 19 years but wasn't able to find a professional job. Like many dissidents, he worked as a metal worker, an aid to a skipper, a sailor, and an electrician. For a short period of time he was able to get a job as an editor in a publishing house "Hermitage" but lost it because of his intentions to leave Russia for Israel. In 1973, he finally immigrated and in 1974 settled down in New York, where he changed his last name to Kreyd. For about a year Vadim Kreyd taught Russian literature in Queens College and then moved to California to pursue his American degree. In 1983, he defended his dissertation in the field of the History of Russian Literature at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor and for one year taught at Harvard. From 1985 until his retirement in 2002 he was professor of Russian Literature at the University of Iowa.

The Vadim Kreyd Papers will be of particular interest to scholars studying the history of the Russian dissident movement in Leningrad and Russian Diaspora in the 20th century.
