Visiting

Helping students learn how to think is our primary concern. But we know that feeling can be just as important as thinking, and that sometimes a place just feels right. So we encourage you to come visit us in person. Sit in on a class. Talk with current students. Experience Amherst for yourself.

Welcome, Everyone

Our campus is open and easy to navigate. Walk around, see our spectacular views, attend an event, visit a museum. You can explore the campus on your own, or take an Admission tour, or even sit in on a class.

Admission Tours & Information Sessions

There are a number of ways you can experience Amherst in person. Reservations are not necessary for individual students and their families, or for groups of ten or fewer. Groups of more than ten should call the Office of Admission at (413) 542-2328 two weeks in advance to schedule a visit.

Join a Campus Tour

Guided tours, led by Amherst students, depart from the Admission Office.

Attend an Information Session

We regularly offer two kinds of sessions: general information and financial aid information. Both are held at the Admission Office.

Observe an Amherst Class

Select a class from our course scheduler. Contact the professor ahead of time. And check the calendar to make sure classes are in session. Please plan to stay for the duration of the class. Due to the small size of our classes, group visits cannot be accommodated.
